LOCAL MINING REVIEW. For the week Ending August 30, 1873,

In looking back upon the work of last mence. week we may see much that is encouraging to the people of Pioche. The ore in shipped also, and hundreds of fons now he on the dumps waiting for shipment. Work on one mine, the Pioche Phenix, in which about forty men were employed, has ceased temporarily; but it is surmised that the mine will not long lie idie.

Pay-day is now approaching, and those who make drafts on miners' pockets, are anxionsly awaiting the happy day. "The tiger" is licking his chops in anticipation of the coming feast, and all those inferior beasts that eater for him, and those This vein has now continued the same that always accompany him, are likewise for a distance of seventy-five feet. in joyful expectation.

RAYMOND AND ELY

The ore in the upper levels is looking very well. There are seven stopes of first-class ore between the fourth and fifth, on the west side. In the bottom levels prospecting is going on as usual, The work of sinking the shaft for the tenth station has been commenced, and a progress of fifteen feet has been made. A connection has been made with the Hermes shaft at the Raymond & Ely's sixth level. Two drifts are being run on shaft. About 75 feet of the former and 40 feet of the latter have been completed. A great deal more ore might be taken out than is now brought to the surface, but as there are now several hundred tons in the ore house, and the railway company has not been able to transport all that was taken out, many men who might have been otherwise employed are doing dead work. The last bullion shipment was valued at $41,000.

SILVER PEAK.

The sinking on the incline continues. Since the new machinery began work a progress of 30 feet has been made, 10 feet having been sunk in the last week. The ore in the bottom of the shaft is very good, being better than the previous sinking the main shaft. week. The same quantity of ore was taken out last week as was extracted the week before. About 70 tons have been shipped during the month. The assays of ore taken from the bucket were: On it again, and from appearances, richer the 26th, fine, $103 62; coarse, $427 04, than ever. The specimens sent into town On the 28th, fine, $72 26; coarse, yesterday strongly a sembled the richest $106 81. On Saturday the ore samples ores found near the surface in the celegave $169. There would have been a brated Bowery mine, well known to all return of bullion on Saturday, but that old residents of Pioche. a leak occurred in the retort into which the amalgam had been put. The bullion returns will be made on Monday.

MEADOW VALLEY. On account of the resignation of Superintendent Maynard, Captain Day, of the Raymond & Ely mine, has been appointed Superintendent pro tem. The appearance of the mine is favorable, and ore is being taken out of No. 3 shaft from the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth levels. Work at No. 7 has been discontinued. This, however, we are informed is probably a temporary suspension only. Work at No. 5, the machinery on which was damaged some time ago, will be resumed to-day.

Three eight-hour shifts will be employed in order to sink with all possible speed.

WASHINGTON & CHEOLE. As drifting is continued, east and west the ledge continues to improve. A drift is also being run to the south. The stopes are looking much better than during the previous week. From seven to eight tons of ore are taken out daily; and there are now on the dump 400 tons, This ore is of the same grade as the last milled, which gave $90 per ton. Milling will begin between the 1st and 5th of September.

SPRING MOUNTAIN TUNNEL. Work still continues in sinking on No. 3 ledge, but without material changehaving left the ledge in order to give the shaft a more uniform course. The work will be continued in this direction for some time longer, when, should the vein not straighten up and resume its course, a cross-cut will be commenced at the 150-foot level to expose it, when it is believed good ore will be found, as all signs point in that direction.

NEWARK MINE. This mine is employing 70 men. Have had milled this month 200 tons of first class ore, and are taking out and shipping to mill daily 20 tons from the 500foot level. The 400, 600 and 700-foot level drifts are being driven south from the main shaft, to cut the ledge, as fast as possible. The vein will be cut at all three points within 40 days.

SAMANTHA. The Samantha mine is situated a short distance to the west of the Silver Peak mine, and has been opened by a shaft sunk on the ledge to the depth of 115 feet. At this point the ledge is about four feet wide, and shows two feet of rich ore on the hanging wall. Assays of average rock range from $150 and $300.

The Caroline lode was located in the year 1868, and is one of the very oldest he asked the leniency of the Court Panaca Flat and vicinity there are only two locations of anterior date, viz: the old Panaca and the Mammoth. WORK DONE-CHARACTER OF ORE, ETC. The original locators sunk a shaft 70 feet deep on the ledge on the discovery claim, following the foot wall, which was principally shale and slate, the usual formation of the flat near the surface. No material change in the character of the ore had occurred at that depth. The ledge dips to the southward at an angle of 80°. Above the shaft, and lying against the hanging wall, there are two feet of yellow decomposed ore, which has never been drifted into. Extreme assays from this body of ore, on the surface, range from $80 to $174 per ton.

surveyed and a perpendicular working shaft started, calculated to cut the vein double one, each compartment four by four in the clear, thoroughly timbered and in every respect an excellent and creditable piece of work. It was sunk with a windlass 225 feet, when the company concluded to erect hoisting works and open the mine on a larger and more vigorous scale. The erection of the works was commenced on the 1st of the present month, and under the energetic supervision of Captain Hardy, the Superintendent of the mine, was carried to completion in the extraordinarily short space of 24 days, the building finished and the engine running, not experimentally, but doing its regular work, on the morning of the 25th of August, exactly 25 days from the time the first blow was struck. We question whether any piece of work, of similar solidity and magnitude, was ever performed in this camp, or any other, in a shorter space of time.

The shaft is now down 250 feet, and making excellent progress, the ground being very favorable for working. The winze sinking are as near a certainty as anything can be on the vein from the 164-foot level is that is yet unseen. Not a doubt exists down 54 feet, in good milling ore. The in the mind of the Superintendent and owners of the Caroline, that the rich body of ore struck by the Newark in dfifting up the hill is the Caroline ledge, and under the present efficient manage ment, the fact, if so, will soon be demonstrated. They are working short hours, and driving the work of sinking the shaft with all possible speed. About 650 feet above the hoisting works is the main tank of the Floral Springs Water Com, pany, and it is the intention to shortly lay a pipe from the tank to the works, thereby rendering the danger from fire absolutely nil. No better prospect for a first-class mine exists to-day in Ely Dis-

> SENTENCE OF JEFFERSON HOW ARD.

A Good Word for Judge Fuller.

We cannot justly withhold a word of praise for the Hon. Mortimer Fuller, Judge of the Seventh Judicial District. in view of the stand he has taken in regard to the punishment of crime. A gentleman of evidently a kindly nature and humane instincts, we are sure there must have been in the mind of his Honor a struggle between the sentiment of Mercy and the principle of Justice. It was apparent from his remarks yesterday morning in passing sentence upon Jefferson Howard, convicted of manslaughter for The shaft is all ore, some of a very the killing of Sheldon D. Potter, that his Honor was performing a painful duty -a duty to which he was impelled by his solemn oath of office-to administer the law as he found it upon the statute book. At the appointed hour Howard was brought from the jail to hear the sentence of the Court. At the words "Jefferson Howard, stand up," lhe defendant, "the observed of all observers," stood face to face with the law he had violated. Judge Fuller stated that he had been indicted for murder, tried by a jury of his peers, and, notwithstanding the aid of able counsel, had been convicted of manslaughter. He was then asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. Howard stated in distinct tones, though with a voice tremulous with emotion that he had never before been guilty of a crime in Nevada or any other State; that he had no intention of killing the man with whom he had the difficulty, but he had been abused and twice struck with a revolver, and that he "heeled" himself and came back only because Potter had dared him to do it. As this was his first crime, locations in Ely Mining District. On Howard's appeal was dignified and manly, considering the circumstances by which he was surrounded. Judge Fuller stated that the Court simply performed a duty in passing sentence upon him, and expressed the hope that Howard might during his imprisonment so conduct yesterday a young man started around town with a subscription paper in aid of a miner who was sick. He headed the list with the names of several prominent gentlemen, and their giving to the supposed charitable object led others to contribute. It turned out, however, that the names which headed the list had been used wholly without authority. Suspicion was cast upon the transaction, and officer Birdsell insisted upon seeing the sick and disabled honest miner. Our here escerted the officer to a cabin on the hillside, but found the door locked The officer became suspicious; indeed he intimated that some of Adam's fallen race had directed their steps Piocheward. Our hero yowed that he had been "sold," and said that he would get a officer invited him to the Justice's office and volunteered to assist him to expose the fraud. The accused is held in $200 for his appearance to-morrow morning. Until then we are content to remain silent.

The bell is from the factory of at a depth of 350 feet. The shaft is a Blymyer & Norton, of Cincinnati, and weighs 1,000 pounds. It is of exquisite tone; and when its chimes ring out the hour of service on each succeeding Sabbath, many a heart, long disused to the once familiar sound, will yield to the long forgotten spell, and, hardly knowing how or why, find itself once more be neath the sacred roof, where in childhoo it learned the long forgotten words, "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Welcome to one more church bell! May it prove the precursor of many another, until frontier life shall lose its bad preem. inence, and the quiet and beauty of the Christian Sabbath be indeed our own. By request of the rector, it is announced that on the occasion of any fire of more than ordinary magnitude, the bell will ring the general alarm.

At 3:30 p. m. the defense rested, and the argument of counsel began. Henry Rives opened the case for the prosecution, and was followed by J. C. Foster for the defense. District Attorney Goldthwaite closed the argument at 10:30 p. m. Judge Fuller then gave his charge to the jury. The Court-room was cleared, and after twenty-five minutes the jury returned the following verdict: "State of Nevada vs. Owen Fergu-

FERGUSON'S APPEABANCE. During the trial Ferguson's face generally showed few signs of agitation. He sat next to his counsel part of the time, often apparently making suggestions. He frequently would write with a pencil on the paper which lay before him, and hand it to his attorneys. At other times he would confer with them in whispers. Now and then he would rise from his seat and walk outside the railing, and then return to his chair. He would also sometimes stand up and lean on the railing as if to ease his crippled leg. When District Attorney Goldthwaite was making the closing speech, Ferguson's eyes seemed to rest on him continually, whether he sat, or walked, or stood leanwhether he sat, or walked, or stood leaning on his cane, and his agitation was then more visible than at any other time. He heard the reading of the verdict with seemingly great calmness, considering his situation, and as he walked from the Court-room he simply said, "Murder in the first degree" and laughed, but almost inaudibly.
